Interleukin-1 beta-converting enzyme homolog (ICE) is a cysteine protease inhibitor specific for interleukin-1 beta. Interleukin-1 beta-converting enzyme homolog (ICE) is a cysteine protease that has been implicated as the homologue of mammalian interleukin-1 beta converting enzyme (caspase-1) and the mammalian inflammatory caspases. To determine if ICE is a cysteine protease inhibitor specific for interleukin-1 beta, we expressed and purified recombinant ICE and assayed it against purified interleukin-1 beta and other proteins known to be cleaved by caspases. Recombinant ICE cleaved interleukin-1 beta with nearly 1000-fold greater efficiency than recombinant caspase-1, suggesting that ICE may be the physiological inhibitor of interleukin-1 beta in vivo. We also show that ICE inhibits the inflammatory caspases. The interleukin-1 beta domain that is homologous to ICE is necessary and sufficient for the cleavage of interleukin-1 beta by ICE. In addition, we provide evidence that interleukin-1 beta has a protease-resistant region that is cleaved by ICE, identifying a novel functional domain of interleukin-1 beta.

Q: Yii - Authentication/authorization with "Restricted Access" concept I need to have "Restricted Access" concept, to limit the access by users to specific pages and actions. For example, if the user is not logged-in, then he shouldn't be able to see the index page or the login page etc. I know about the "yii" and it's the best controller generator for small to medium web applications, but, it is not really helpful for my needs, because it does not offer the "Restricted Access" functionality. And of course there is the "yii framework" but it seems to be still at the "sandbox stage". Is there a straightforward way to implement this functionality? A: AFAIK, Yii has 3 authentication modes WebUser Basic Form You can
