via an external control surface, or whether it is ran as a standalone or a virtual instrument. Because we are not in the business of pushing your box, we are not interested in third party marketing to get you to buy our plug-ins. All the information on our website is the information that is essential for all customers to know about our products. We have written no stories, only real-world performance and efficiency information. For the customers that want to benefit from the functions of our tools in a box but don't want the hassle of incorporating our plug-ins into your software, we also provide a new plug-in format, called the Audiffex Pedals Plug-in Package, for individual users. The plug-in package is a self-contained set of all the plug-ins included in the Pedals package. It requires an external plugin to run and is loaded directly into your DAW, allowing you to use all our commercial free plug-ins together with minimal programming and mixing. This will be released early 2013. We use the AUDIFLOW® technology to create great sounding plug-ins. The technology follows the same principles as traditional analog modeling, but is vastly superior. AUDIFLOW® provides a rich, natural-sounding signal path that you can rely on to produce the most appropriate sound for any given situation. It is the foundation for all Audiffex Pedals® plug-ins. We use the world-renowned SoundOnSound® plug-in development and publishing platform, which has been in use for many years. This was a major decision in designing our products and is a testament to our belief in the platform. We offer both freeware and commercial versions of our plug-ins. This information is available on the website, and would be useless in a review. We are not in the business of pushing your box, we are not interested in third party marketing to get you to buy our products. All of our plug-ins have been digitally signed with a single strong pass-key, 3a67dffeec

Well, there are 36 pedals in total. 5 guitar pedals, 3 vocal and 3 acoustic. Each of those can be used to simulate real world situations, you can call it creative or inspired products. First we have the guitar pedals. Allowing you to enhance your guitar tone, something which is necessary for many of you. Each of those are available in 4 variations. Analog, which is the original and classic tuning of the pedal, Digital, which of course adds a digital simulation of the original. Finally each of them has 3 variations, VCA, which controls the amount of the effect. Fade or CC is used to control the speed of the transition. Volume which is pretty self-explanatory, and last but not least Buffer. It is pretty much the same as the Volume, but it goes through a digital simulation. The Vocal pedals are for voice, for those of you who got tired of singing in too high notes. Even you can make your voice as deep or as high as you can. Everything is there, the pedal has 2 variations VCA and Volume and Buffer. The acoustic pedals, they are pretty similar to the guitar pedals, they are just meant for acoustic instruments. So allow you to make you sound as a real pro acoustic. For the acoustic pedals there are 6 variants available. Analog, for the simple synth-like tones.
