The workbook has a spreadsheet format. 1 column, A1 through X35. I am not using any specific type of cell (e.g. number, text, date) but rather I am just trying to save a string to the first row/column in the sheet. When I try to save the string value using the Excel.OleObject (OLE DB Destination component), I get the following exception: "Exception from HRESULT: 0x800A03EC". I have attempted to save the string to various cell values and none of them work. How can I successfully save a string to the first row in an Excel workbook using the Excel interop components? A: Looks like some other programmers with a similar problem had a solution posted here: It is rather long, so I'm just going to post the solution: String so = "so"; Excel.Worksheet ws = (Excel.Worksheet)xIwb.Sheets[1]; Excel.Range range = ws.Cells[ws.Rows[1].Index,ws.Columns[1].Index]; object misValue = System.Reflection.Missing.Value; range.Value2 = misValue; range.ConvertToFormula(); Q: Embed gzipped content with Django Rest framework (to S3) I have a Django app (django.contrib.admin) that publishes a gzipped version of the static files in my Django project. I want to make some of these static files available through an API endpoint. I'm using django-rest-
