September 9, 2016 – Graphical Express Structure Analysis Program (GRASP). GRASP stands for "Graphic Rapid Structural Analysis Program". The GRASP program consists of two sections in which the user describes his ideas, and the computer analyzes how likely certain design solutions are. As a result, various recommendations and hints are issued. The GRASP program uses a system of two profiles, that is, the user does not have to specify to what extent certain parameters should be taken into account. The program itself determines the degree of importance of each parameter and its influence on the design.
