The paths are OK and the selections can be OK. However, that is all. Beyond those basics there is no reason for the average person to use Photoshop, but the few advanced features make it better than the competition. For fine arts and photographers, there is no other alternative. But for those tasks the tool is quite powerful. I am active/sometimes active member in IG community as well as FF. as well as DP forum and I like Photoshop and I have to share my experience/review of PS. Because it is perhaps one of the most versatile software there is. But I am not quite sure if it is because of this forum is mostly a shareware software. I think that there is some sense of unfairness my feeling. after all, you will share your feedback to Forum and it will be your personal settings/customer if you have or not I have so much photos and so much art that I need a powerful photo editor and I tried so many ways to edit them using Photoshop. And I was surprised to find that Photoshop is pretty much useless to me. The top 50% of the product is what I spent hours on but I was not able to use the remaining 50% of the product enough. Also, the price is too very high. And to use only your own fonts makes the product too expensive for me. I can't understand someone was why invites so many admirers who even royalty to any other free products.
